Risk Considerations The UITs in this brochure invest in various types of securities, which may include common stocks, preferred securities, Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs), convertible securities, senior loans, high-yield bonds, municipal closed-end funds, REIT closed-end funds, mortgage-backed securities, investment-grade corporate bonds, equity closed-end funds, income closed-end funds, international equity securities and/or American Depositary Receipts (ADRs), covered-call closed-end funds, and GNMA securities. In addition, the securities may be further classified by market capitalization, industry sector, investment style and issuer's country of origin. • An investment in a particular trust should be made with an understanding of the risks associated with its respective underlying securities. • Certain trusts may be concentrated in various sectors. As a result, the factors that impact the specific sector will likely have a greater effect on the specific trust than a more broadly diversified trust. • There is no guarantee that any given trust will achieve its investment objective. You can lose some or all of your investment in these trusts. The trusts might not perform as well as you expect. • Securities prices can be volatile. • The value of your investment may fall over time. • Market value fluctuates in response to various factors. These can include stock market movements, purchases or sales of securities by the trusts, government policies, litigation, and changes in interest rates, inflation, the financial condition of the securities' issuer or even perceptions of the issuer. • Share prices or dividend rates on the securities in a particular trust may decline during the life of the trust. • The financial condition of an issuer may worsen, or its credit ratings may drop, resulting in a reduction in the value of your units. This may occur at any point in time, including during the primary offering period. • Inflation may lead to a decrease in the value of assets or income from investments. • The trusts will generally hold, and may continue to buy, the same securities even though the security's outlook, rating, market value or yield may have changed.

Please see each trust's prospectus for more complete risk information specific to each trust.

Unit Investment Trusts (UITs) are fixed and not actively managed and should be considered as part of a long-term strategy. UITs are subject to annual fund operating expenses in addition to the sales charges. Investors should consult an attorney or tax advisor regarding tax consequences associated with an investment from one series to the next, if available, and with the purchase or sale of units. Guggenheim Funds Distributors, LLC does not offer tax advice.
