

Appian for Insurance: Sarbanes-Oxley Internal Compliance and Controls

Sarbanes-Oxley touches all areas of a business, requiring insurers to report on and manage all key business activities. In order to comply with tighter federal regulations and increased compliance oversight, insurers must consistently manage requirements across various legal, technical, and business lines. However, many insurers lack the business process management solutions required to achieve global compliance with Sarbanes-Oxley.

Insurers need a cohesive approach to support their compliance initiatives, including steps for individual consent, subcontractor compliance, document management, audit reminders, and reporting.
