Long Manager Track Record

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

- » The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing in securities of companies with tangible assets.
- » The Fund invests at least 80% of its net assets (plus borrowings for investment purposes) in exchange-traded equity securities of "real assets" companies (under normal market conditions). The Fund defines "real assets" companies as those in energy, materials, infrastructure, real estate, and utility sectors.
- » Investment attributes of these assets are manifold - potential inflation protection, high barriers to entry, potential for yield generation, and diminished correlation to the broader equity market.

Invests in Companies with Real Assets - The Fund defines "real assets" companies as those in energy, materials, industrials, real estate, and utility sectors.

Long Manager Track Record - The portfolio managers have extensive experience in financial markets, and have worked together for over ten years.

The performance data quoted here represents past performance. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted above. Investment return and principal value will fluctuate, so that shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. Results shown reflect the waiver, without which the results could have been lower. A fund's performance, especially for very short periods of time, should not be the sole factor in making your investment decisions. Why Investors Want Real Asset Exposure

- » Potential for Inflation Protection: The intrinsic value of tangible assets, be it land, machinery, or infrastructure, tends to appreciate.
- » Barriers to Entry: With mounting regulatory challenges and population growth, the creation of new infrastructure becomes increasingly complex.
- » Potential for Yield Generation: Real assets can generate stable and recurring cash flows. Whether it's rent from real estate investment trusts (REITs) or fees from utility companies, the predictability of these cash flows can translate into attractive dividend yields.
- » Diminished Correlation to Broader Market: In recent years, the S&P 500 Index has seen a pronounced skew towards mega-cap tech and media companies. Names like Apple, Amazon, Microsoft, and Alphabet dominate the index's weightage, inherently influencing its performance. Industries such as utilities, energy, and real estate operate on economic, regulatory, and demand factors distinct from the tech and media sectors.

Risk Considerations:

Investing in the Fund carries certain risks. The value of the Fund may decrease in response to the activities and financial prospects of an individual security in the Fund's portfolio. Because the Advisor is primarily responsible for managing both the Fund and certain Underlying Funds, the Advisor is subject to conflict of interest with respect to how it allocates the Fund's assets among the Underlying Funds. Derivatives are investments in which the value is "derived" from the value of an underlying asset, reference rate, or index. The value of derivatives may rise or fall more rapidly than other investments. For some derivatives, it is possible to lose more than the amount invested in the derivative. If the Fund uses derivatives to "hedge" the overall risk of its portfolio, it is possible that the hedge may not succeed. Because the Fund may invest its assets in underlying mutual funds or ETFs that have their own fees and expenses in addition to those charged directly by the Fund, the Fund may bear higher expenses than a Fund that invests directly in individual securities. Diversification does not assure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market.

Real estate values rise and fall in response to a variety of factors, including local, regional and national economic conditions, interest rates and tax considerations. As with any investment, there are risks associated with REITs. Risks include declines from deteriorating economic conditions, changes in the value of the underlying property, and defaults by borrowers.

The Fund may be non-diversified and the value and/or volatility of a single issuer could have a greater impact on Fund performance.
